

Freeth Cartwright LLP lawyers to get Lexis® Check

Another leading firm sign-up to automated legal reference checking from LexisNexis

LONDON, 19 January 2011, LexisNexis UK, a leading provider of content-enabled workflow solutions, today announced that UK law firm Freeth Cartwright LLP has selected Lexis® Check as part of its information strategy for fee-earners. LexisCheck validates legal references with just one click, reducing the time it takes to check citations and minimising the time spent on research and fact-checking across the firm.

LexisNexis is providing Freeth Cartwright LLP, a top UK law firm, with legal information services across all their practice areas, for fee-earners, professional support lawyers (PSLs) and trainees to use from their desktop.

Vivian Grainge, Library and Information Services Manager at Freeth Cartwright LLP, explained, "At Freeth Cartwright, our vision is to be a different kind of law firm, delivering answers not options. We see LexisCheck as a great tool for our lawyers to use to get to answers for our clients faster.

"We see that LexisCheck, used alongside our other LexisNexis services, will help us to provide a faster and more accurate service to our customers, as well as making life easier for our fee-earners. We pride ourselves on being an employer of choice and providing tools like this to our lawyers is part of our commitment to them, as well as our clients."

LexisCheck will be available as a toolbar across the firm's word processing applications and internet browsers – enabling lawyers to check information in documents without having to remember passwords, run searches or spend time looking through handbooks.

Tim Hawkins, Content and Customer Operations Director, LexisNexis UK, added, "We're seeing increased demand for services which make it easier for our customers to access the wealth of UK legislation and case information we have to offer. We're delighted that Freeth Cartwright have seen the benefits of our latest innovation LexisCheck, and look forward to helping them continue to deliver superior advice to their clients."
